Three Generations of Cuban Jazz with Chuchito Valdes

Chuchito Valdes represents a third generation of Cuban musicians who have contributed significantly to the development of Latin Jazz. Chuchito’s grandfather, Bebo Valdes (b.1918) was a major pianist, composer, and leader of the famous Tropicana Orchestra in Havana. Chuchito’s father, Chucho Valdes (b.1941) is also a renowned pianist and past leader of the famous Irakere Orchestra. Many of the arrangements for this program have been transcribed from original recordings and have been debuted in the U.S. by the Chicago Jazz Orchestra.
